

C.E.O.s OF TOMORROW YOUTH CONFERENCE

In my opinion, unsuccessful people don't fail at being successful; they fail at not understanding the importance of success and careers. At the youth conference, I had the opportunity to talk with so many successful people, which was priceless for me. Before the conference, I didn't understand the importance or what it meant to be successful! While talking with different C.E.O.s and asking questions about their foundation, I realized what success was and the importance of it all. Being successful doesn't mean just having money; it means having a clear purpose in life and setting attainable goals.

Another highlight I received from attending the youth conference was to believe in myself, even if nobody else does. I believe that I can go far in life, so I can and will. Anytime someone knocks us down by not believing in us, we are responsible for getting back up because if we don't, we're just proving them right. Most people focus on what other people think about them, and it takes away from their true potential and power. Finally, it's all up to us; we have to want a successful life for ourselves. I recommend anyone, in the world, to attend the conference because it is definitely a life changing experience.
